

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process and equipment for producing a molded article, especially from a carbon molding compound that has been treated with carbon fibers and contains a thermosetting binder, wherein the molded article is hardened by heating in a press mold under pressure. The molded article is heated by itself by electric resistance heating.